Recently I sent you a CIA record reporting how it got Gerhart to take up the cudgels against critics of the Warren Report.

I also sent a copy of the record to an old friend who is an editor of a major London newspaper. (bcc. Louis Heren, deputy editor The Times of London)

In his response he states:

"I recall Dr. Edward Ingram, the cultural attache in the US Embassy here, quite well and it was my understanding ~~then~~ at the time that he was a CIA man."

So the CIA was more active in such endeavors than we knew.

Does one not wonder why?
